

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A data driving part takes in image display data in response to a clock signal supplied, and causes an image display part to display an image according to the image display data. A control part detects a change pattern of the image display data, and adjusts a phase relationship between the clock signal and image display data according to the detected change pattern.

10015065 121101